Making Good Friends While Writing Trade History

It was like a tonic to the entire trade to learn last week that John Wanamaker had bought TWO HUNDRED THOUSAND YARDS of Cotton Dress Goods for a feature of this great May sale. Several big cotton mills were tremendously relieved of stock, and can turn their attention to production again. Incidentally it takes this enormous quantity of Cotton Goods out of competition and helps everybody in the cotton goods trade.

Of course we got the cottons at practically our own prices. And THAT FACT points to YOUR GREAT OPPORTUNITY, if you have use for other Summer gowns for yourself or the children.

Probably never before in the history of retailing has there been such an extraordinary offering as followed our purchase of TWELVE HUNDRED SILK DRESSES last week. The ordinary store would count a hundred dresses a big lot. The biggest store in the land might be proud of a sale of five hundred dresses—if it really had them to count, and wasn't printing fictitious figures. But here were TWELVE HUNDRED DRESSES, newly made up, in styles of our own selection—beautiful—tremendous variety—regularly worth more than $25,000, and offered for $13,500—$11.25 each. Do you wonder that even on that rainy day we broke all selling records?

It is at times such as these that WANAMAKER'S looms up as THE STORE THAT DOES THINGS—bringing tremendous benefit to the shopping public. ARE YOU REAPING YOUR SHARE OF THE BENEFIT?

How Much Do You Think Of Your FURS?

DON'T be careless about where they spend the Summer.

DON'T let somebody charge you storage for packing them in camphor or tar paper—leaving them in the heat to dry out all their natural oils, destroying their softness and lustre.

DON'T let them be sent away to be stored with butler and eggs, to get damp and musty.

BE CERTAIN ABOUT THEM THIS TIME.

Come and visit the WANAMAKER DRY COLD AIR STORAGE VAULT. It is open to visitors; and you are welcome to see for yourself just how cold it is; how dry and pure the air is; how the furs must love it.

Keeps the furs soft and beautiful, retaining their lustre, lengthening their life, for seems hold better and the fur stays in the skin better when the oils are not dried out by the Summer heat.

Then there's not a speck of dust in the air—no moisture; garments are never pressed or crowded—each hanging free on its own rack, available for your use on fifteen minutes' notice.

The BEST FUR STORAGE IN THE WORLD
REPAIRS AND ALTERATIONS at most reasonable prices now. A request, by mail or telephone, will bring our wagon for your furs, or other garments to be stored.
